

You Became a Good Ancestor

I was given the opportunity to travel to the future! As you can imagine, at first I wanted to see how things turned out for your mom and me. Instead, I thought it best to give you something to look forward to, to give you some incentive for slogging through the muck of the present and the near future. In a couple decades you will be living in a community that is the result of all of the rethinking, reorienting, and re-valuing that you did following the pandemic. All of your sacrifices and deferring of instant gratification finally paid off, for you and your family. Importantly, you and your generation began to see the importance of being "good ancestors". I am so proud of you. Dad
