

Statement Elections Faculty Council BMS 2020

Dr. Tessa H.S. Eysink

As an associate professor in educational science I am active in both research and education and fully aware of people's sentiments and views in those fields. I will gladly use my knowledge and experience to contribute to preserving what is good in BMS and improving what can be done better. A seat on the faculty council would enable me to critically assess proposed policy against the following themes:

- a healthy, sustainable faculty that responds flexibly to new developments in both education and research;
- a good balance between research and education, taking into account everyone's qualities;
- a good personnel policy that takes workload into account to ensure that the faculty is an attractive employer for new and current staff;
- investments that contribute to an inspirational educational climate in which students and teachers can fully develop themselves.
