

Roundtable

Recent Developments in EU External Relations Law

Participants:

Stanislas Adam, Court of Justice of the EU, Isabelle Bosse-Platière, University of Rennes 1, Kieran Bradley, Court of Justice of the EU, Antonio Caiola, European Parliament, Fernando Castillo de la Torre, European Commission, Mauro Gatti, University of Luxembourg, Eleftheria Neframi, University of Luxembourg, Andrea Ott, University of Maastricht, Luca Prete, Court of Justice of the EU, Edoardo Stoppioni, Max Planck Institute Luxembourg, Ramses Wessel, University of Twente

The aim of the roundtable is to discuss the recent groundbreaking judgments of the Court of Justice of the EU, as well as pending cases, in the field of external relations, regarding the relationship between EU and international law (Western Sahara Campaign UK, C-266/16), the autonomy of the EU's legal order (Achmea, C-284/16), or the choice of legal bases and the position of the Union in international bodies (COTIF, C-600/14; MPA Antarctic, C-626/15 and C-659/16; Agreement with Kazakhstan, C-244/17). Those cases are significant, not only because they shed light on controversial legal questions, but also because they may impact on politically sensitive issues, such as the new trade and investment agreements (e.g. CETA), the role of the European Parliament or the Brexit negotiations.
