Note:

Finally, the Teaching and Examination Regulations allow you to swap one of the electives (but not the one devoted to ethics and professional standards) for either an academic writing course, or an assistantship with a fellow student who does graduation work.

If you want to support the graduation work of a fellow students, and gain credits for it, both you and your fellow student must turn to the Examination Board to gain permission. Permission will be given only if there are clear learning targets for the assistant, and there is an agreement with the graduation supervisor that he will also assess the assistantship.
