Introduction

1.1 Intro

- This is a 'validated' template latex file that was used in the PhD Thesis of Anna Sperotto [1, 2].
- By validated we mean that it was employed and printed in a local printing company in Enschede, The Netherlands.
- Please refer to [1] to see how it looks the final PDF file.
- This final template contains contributions from other people.
- Please notice that it employs paper size B5 (176 x 250mm)

1.2 How To Use it

- You might have to install extra packages on your system to make it work. How you do that depends on your computer system.
- The file `make_thesis.sh` contains the sequence of commands that should be executed (manually or on your graphic tool) to compile correctly the thesis. They are:
  - `pdflatex main`
  - `bibtex main`
  - `pdflatex main`
  - `makeindex main.idx`
  - `makeglossaries main`
  - `pdflatex main`

1.3 Licensing

- This template is under public domain. Feel free to change/distribute as you will.
- For the developers' and authors' protection, there is no warranty for this template. However, it was already used and validated before.

About the author

George Denis Patrick Carlin (May 12, 1937 – June 22, 2008) was an American stand-up comedian, social critic, actor and author, who won five Grammy Awards for his comedy albums [3]

Carlin was noted for his black humor as well as his thoughts on politics, the English language, psychology, religion, and various taboo subjects. Carlin and his "Seven Dirty Words" comedy routine were central to the 1978 U.S. Supreme Court case F.C.C. v. Pacifica Foundation, in which a narrow 5–4 decision by the justices affirmed the government's power to regulate indecent material on the public airwaves.

The first of his fourteen stand-up comedy specials for HBO was filmed in 1977. In the 1990s and 2000s, Carlin's routines focused on socio-cultural criticism of modern American society. He often commented on contemporary political issues in the United States and satirized the excesses of American culture. His final HBO special, It's Bad for Ya, was filmed less than four months before his death.

In 2004, Carlin placed second on the Comedy Central list of the 100 greatest stand-up comedians of all time, ahead of Lenny Bruce and behind Richard Pryor. He was a frequent performer and guest host on The Tonight Show during the three-decade Johnny Carson era, and hosted the first episode of Saturday Night Live. In 2008, he was awarded the Mark Twain Prize for American Humor.
