Transitional arrangement Positieve Psychologie en Technologie (PPT)

For students who started this mastertrack before September 2018.

In the academic year 2018-2019 five units of study/courses of the master track/specialization Positieve Psychologie en Technologie (which were offered in 2017-2018) will not be offered any longer:

201000091	Counseling en gespreksvaardigheden
201000093	Verdieping psychopathologie
201300032	Toegepaste positieve psychologie
201000094	Cognitieve en gedragstherapie
201000092	eMental health

In line with the general programme-specific section of the Student Charter the following applies to these courses: Students who submitted at least once the course's assignment(s) or who sat for an exam during the academic year 2017-2018, but who failed to complete the course successfully (i.e. implying that the course is graded as insufficient in the university's administrative system Osiris), are to be given two re-sit opportunities (written exam and/or relevant assignments) in the academic year 2018-2019. For students who failed to complete more than one of the courses it is important to contact the study adviser for consultation on how to complete the master's programme.

For students who did not sit for an exam for one or more of the courses it is necessary to contact the study adviser for consultation on how to complete the (appropriate) master's programme ((at least) 60EC). In general, students are bound to the following transitional arrangements: the units of study of the 2017-2018 programme are replaced by the current Psychology graduation units of study as listed in the table below.
