

(Re)assigning your name to research output

As a result of the datamigration, the Pure base name(from HR sync) is used for all your research output. The Quick Reference Card: Changing your name in Pure, shows how to add name variants and control the way your name is displayed in Pure. These preferences are used when adding NEW content to Pure Research Information.

To change your name-display in existing research output, it is necessary to re-assign your name in every individual publication for which a name variant applies.

It is crucial to do this in the following order:

1. In a publication record, go to the Authors and affiliation section and click the “add person” button

2. Type (part of) your name and click the right one (the name variant(s) you created earlier, using the Changing your name in Pure Quick Reference Card.

Make sure the right organizational unit is checked
