What you need to know

There are a few things you need to know before you hire a German student:

German students

- Working in the Netherlands: Dutch health insurance required
When a German student starts working in the Netherlands, this has consequences on his or her German health insurance. Read more about this at: How does health insurance work in the Netherlands?
- Working and/or living in Germany
When a German student lives and/or works in Germany, this has consequences for payroll tax and social insurance deductions in the Netherlands. Read more about this in:
- German students
- German students and student health insurance

Students from outside the EEA

- Working in the Netherlands: work permits
A student from a country outside the European Economic Area must always have a valid work permit. See this link for members of the states EU/EEA.
- Working in the Netherlands: Dutch health insurance required
When a student from a country outside the EEA starts work in the Netherlands, this has consequences for student health insurance. Read more about this in the documents:
 - Rules for hiring non-EEA students
